

Arbutus Folk School

Prospective Instructor Packet

About Arbutus Folk School

Arbutus Folk School enriches lives and builds community through experiential learning in arts, craft, and culture.

Arts instructors provide our core programming with community classes in ceramics, wood-working, stone-carving, blacksmithing, fiber arts, music, and other crafts. We hold classes in our downtown facilities on 4th Ave, and also work with artists to offer off-site classes in their own shop or studio.

Instructors should expect a majority-beginner audience and class sizes of approximately six to twenty students, depending on the subject and classroom in use.

Compensation

Compensation for instructor time is commensurate with prior experience in arts instruction and expertise in the art form. Hourly wages are paid to instructors for both prep and instructional time. Instructors offering classes off-site are paid an additional reimbursement for the use of their facilities and equipment.

Prior experience in arts instruction could include teaching or co-teaching classes, mentoring an apprentice, training co-workers in a production shop or studio, and giving individual or small-group lessons; instructional settings could include colleges and universities, K12 schools, community studios, other folk schools, and informal arrangements with family and friends.

Current rates are in the range of $20-28 per hour.

Artists who do not yet have experience in arts instruction but who have an interest in teaching may consider applying for our artist residency program, but neither completion of a residency nor previous teaching experience are required to teach at Arbutus Folk School.

Scheduling

Our classes may occur any day of the week in the morning, afternoon, or evening, generally between 9am and 9pm. Classes may range in length from one- or two-day classes to 4-, 8-, or even 12-week classes that meet weekly. Scheduling is based on the artist's availability, studio space availability, and our sense of community preferences and needs. For example, we often schedule our classes outside of typical business hours because we have found there is a greater demand for these opportunities.

Cancellations

All classes must meet a minimum enrollment in order to run and will otherwise be canceled. Arbutus administrative staff regularly assess enrollment and provide timely communication to instructors regarding their upcoming classes. It is important for prospective instructors to understand that a class they plan is not guaranteed to take place, but depends on minimum enrollment to proceed.

Joining the Team

Arbutus instructors are typically hired as temporary employees. “Temporary” employment does not mean that an artist has been hired for a limited duration, but instead indicates that hours will vary from week to week and month to month – according to the instructor’s class schedule.

If an instructor prefers to work under contract rather than as an employee, they must fulfill associated requirements of Washington state law, found here. Contracted instructors will typically teach out of their own facilities using their own tools and equipment.

Requirements

Employees must report their hours every two weeks for paydays on the 10th and 25th of each month. Contracted instructors are paid after each course, and do not report their hours.

Because youth may attend most classes offered by Arbutus, all instructors must consent to an employment background check prior to joining our team. Non-violent criminal histories are not relevant to our hiring decision.

Arbutus Folk School is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, sexual preference, age, national origin, disability, veteran status, or any other classification by law.

All students, staff, and representatives of Arbutus Folk School must agree to and abide by our Code of Conduct.
